Women Howling at the Moon

Women Howling is a Brisbane-based community of make-a-difference women from many backgrounds and circumstances, and with ages ranging from mid twenties to mid seventies.

We share a deep passion for contributing to a life and a world that works for everyone and the planet, particularly with regard to women, peace, social justice and the environment.

We value the importance of connecting authentically with other women and sharing deep diving, authentic conversation on things that matter while having a fabulous time together.

Since it was founded in early 2013, Women Howling has been creating a unique, expanding space for empowerment, contribution and community – with direct results for participants. (Click here to hear from four women.)

Between sessions, Women Howling connects through a vibrant, private online community which includes local Brisbane women as well as many from elsewhere in Australia and internationally.

Women Howling monthly gatherings are not-for-profit, with all profits donated to support the work of the Kapululangu Aboriginal Women's Law and Culture Centre, a remote Aboriginal women's centre in Western Australia's Great Sandy Desert.

The evenings

Up to around forty women meet monthly on the night of the full moon (or close to it) to dine together in a venue we have totally to ourselves. Women share stories of challenges and courage and our dreams. We laugh lots, we have conversations and often a mini-workshop on a particular topic that would make a difference in our lives – and oh yes, we howl! We leave the evenings uplifted, inspired by ourselves and others, with new friends and with renewed hope and energy for our lives and the world.

March focus: Claim Your Power

The March event will identify some of the ways that as women we unintentionally give our power away and miss out on the results we want – and what to do to turn that around, step into our power and get the results we want. The mini-workshop will be led by Chris Henderson, Courage Catalyst and Coach to Professional Women.
